Mareb Province:

In the province of Mareb, landmines planted by Houthi militias have killed 44 people including women and children as reported by the Office of the Ministry of Health in the province.

On October 13, at least four people of the same family have been killed and another travelling passenger was injured when their vehicle hit an anti-tank landmine in Alfaw area, southwest of the province of Mareb.

As stated by the Demining Team, Houthi militias have planted hundreds of anti-personnel and anti-tank mines on public roads, farms of citizens and even the ancient city as follows:

1. In the houses of Al Sofan, 18 anti-tank mines were removed. They were all connected to local-made pedals so they explode as soon as individual pressure is applied to them.
2. In Halis road, 19 anti-tank mines were removed. They were all connected to local-made pedals so they explode as soon as individual pressure is applied to them.
3. On the main road to the ancient and archeological Mareb city, 14 mines were removed. They were all connected to local-made pedals so they explode as soon as individual pressure is applied to them.
